

Grade 9 Outdoor to Roydons

The camp was held at Roydon's nature reserve in Queenstown under hot and dry conditions. Groups were put through a number of different activities with a big focus on group work and the power of a positive attitude. All the boys must be commended on their behaviour and the way they approached the camp and interacted with each other and the staff. Even though some boys decided that water was optional and ended up on a drip, the camp was a great success. I believe this group of boys will add a huge amount of value to College if they use some of the key points learnt at the camp.

Simon Holderness